Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's amendment of February 13, 2004 does not render the application allowable. Applicant has added new claim 9, which parallels original claim 2 in its essentials. For the reasons stated below, claim 9 is obvious over Yuichiro et al.

Status of the Rejections Applied in the Office action of September 16, 2003

2. All previous rejections are withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

Art Unit: 1753

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
 2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
 3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
 4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.
5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).
6. Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the JPO machine translation of Yuichiro et al. (JP 11-230934), hereafter "Yuichiro et al." Note that although Inoue Yoichi is listed as a co-inventor in the declaration of the instant application and on the first page of Yuichiro et al., Noda Yuichiro is not listed as a co-inventor in the declaration of the instant application, but is listed as a co-inventor on the first page of the Yuichiro et al. reference. Thus, the Yuichiro et al. reference is by another (MPEP 715.01(a)).

Yuichiro et al. teaches a method of discriminating a sample for a sensor system which quantitates the concentration of a target substance contained in the sample by measuring electric current (abstract), the method comprising using a ratio of a measured current value to a time-differential value of the current value as a discriminating parameter (paragraph [0013] of the Detailed Description);

Art Unit: 1753

defining a discrimination function for discriminating kinds of a plurality of samples, the discrimination function using the discriminating parameter as an independent variable (paragraph [0013] of the Detailed Description);

using a numeric value obtained by substituting the value of the discriminating parameter into the discrimination function, as a discriminating index (paragraphs [0013]-[0016] of the Detailed Description); and discriminating the kind of any sample based on the discriminating index (paragraphs [0013]-[0016] of the Detailed Description), in which the discrimination function can be defined by means of an expression using a plurality of discriminating parameters (paragraph [0014] of the Detailed Description and [Means for Solving the Problem] of Means).

Although Yuichiro et al discloses using a plurality of discriminating parameters (“n-piece calculations” using different discriminating ratios), using three or more discriminating parameters is not explicitly stated. It would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a plurality of discriminating parameters, especially three or more, because the more discriminating parameters used the more accurate the discrimination of a sample as one kind or another; that is, the more precisely the boundary surface that defines a particular sample region in multi-dimensional space can be defined.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 1, 2, and 5-8 are allowed.

Art Unit: 1753

Final Rejection

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

9. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to ALEX NOGUEROLA whose telephone number is (571) 272-1343. The examiner can normally be reached on M-F 8:30 - 5:00.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, NAM NGUYEN can be reached on (571) 272-1342. The fax phone number for the organization where this application or proceeding is assigned is 703-872-9306.
